

Resources

The Federal Budget

The federal budget, in its entirety.

<http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/budget>

Tax Day 2010

Track how the federal government spent your 2010 federal income-tax dollar.

<http://www.nationalpriorities.org/publications/2011/taxday-2011>

NPP Database

This one-of-a-kind database contains state and local level data on federal spending correlated with ten broad issue areas. Utilize it to see how the federal government allocated expenditures in your state, county, or school district.

<http://nationalpriorities.org/en/tools/database/>

Federal Budget 101

A host of budget charts and graphs offer a solid look at both expenditures and revenue generation over time. Information on the federal budget timeline, the difference between Discretionary and Mandatory Spending, the difference between deficits and debt, and between federal funds and trust funds.

<http://nationalpriorities.org/en/resources/federal-budget-101/>

The President's Budget: Fiscal Year 2012

A review of Presidential budget requests for fiscal years 2008-2012, with state-level spending for 33 federal programs.

<http://nationalpriorities.org/en/publications/2011/presidents-budget-fy2012/>

Jobs and State Budget Crises:

State by State Fact Sheets

Data on unemployment, state budget deficits, estimated recovery times for major metropolitan areas, and jobs created by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act are provided, along with NPP federal budget analysis.

<http://nationalpriorities.org/en/publications/2010/us-jobs-and-budget-crises-local-impacts/>

Data for Democracy webinars

This initiative helps participants – including elected officials, labor leaders, members of the media, organizers and community groups – use NPP's localized federal spending data and tools effectively. State-level figures are available to help participants “bring home” the webinars' main messages.

The series includes:

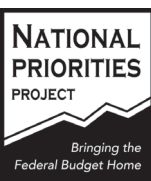

President's Budget 2012

Out of Balance

Federal Budget 101

Jobs, Deficits, and Taxes

<http://nationalpriorities.org/en/resources/webinars/>

National Priorities Project makes federal budget information transparent and accessible so people can prioritize and influence how their tax dollars are spent. NPP holds the vision of an informed and engaged democracy where all people affected by federal spending priorities have the ability and opportunity to shape our nation's budget.